BRITAIN, EIRE MAKE DEFENCE PLANS

Invasion Will Bring Ireland British Force

Eire Will Align Self With United Kingdom Immediately Soil Violated By Enemy

—Will Use Ports

By J. NORMAN LODGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DUBLIN, July 13.—An amicable arrangement between Britain and Eire under which British troops will be given the right to cross Eire's frontiers in the event of a raid by a hostile power was reported today in quarters close to Premier De Valera's office.

RUMANIA MAY CUT HER TIES WITH TURKEY

Demands Those Responsible For Pact With Britain Be Replaced

BUCHAREST, July 13.—Rumania was reported authoritatively today to be ready to sever her Balkan entente ties with Turkey unless officials responsible for Turkey's mutual assistance pact with Britain and France are replaced.

The German legation here told King Carol's government that the latest Berlin white book proves conclusively that Turkey planned with the Allies for an attack on Rumania as well as Soviet oil fields.

The government censors approved an article in Bucharest's German language newspaper, Transilvania, charging Turkey with "treason" to the Balkan entente, consisting of Turkey, Rumania, Greece and Yugoslavia, by "conspiring against the sovereignty and integrity" of Rumania.

UNTOSECU IN PRISON

In German circles here it was reported that Gen. Ion Unescu, leader of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard, still is in prison.

King Carol's new totalitarian regime put into effect today antisemitic orders forcing Christian members of Jews to give up government posts.

The Romanian general staff today ordered farm workers and industrial technical experts demobilized, beginning tomorrow. The order, which was sent back to their civilian jobs was not given, but it included both officers and men.

The order affecting Jews was one of many being taken specially to create in this country a small-sized model of Europe's larger totalitarian states and followed a night of conference involving King Carol, German air and military attaches.

HEAVY LOSS SUFFERED BY ITALIAN FOE

British Garrison Repels Attacks In Kenya-Ethiopian Frontier

CAIRO, July 13.—Although outnumbered, a small British garrison still is holding its positions against the Italians assaulting Mable, fortified port in Kenya-Ethiopian frontier district. British army headquarters said today: "The defenders have inflicted heavy losses on the Italians. In the western desert, the two Italian columns approaching Fort Capuzzo were 'effectively engaged again yesterday.'

The headquarters statement said: "Attacks at Moyale continue. Although heavily outnumbered, the British garrison, after holding all positions, inflicting severe losses on the enemy. In the western desert, two enemy columns approaching Fort Capuzzo again were 'effectively engaged again yesterday.'

Senate Gives Third Reading To Salary Bill

OTTAWA, July 13.—In a brief session today, the senate gave third reading to a bill to provide $10,000 a salary for the minister of the newly created war services department.

Third reading of the bill was held up last night when Senator Lennox, of Quebec, moved an amendment on his right to present a bill to abrogate a rule requiring that 24 hours elapse between second and third reading.

OTTAWA, July 13.—All single men will be called up first for military training under the classification to follow national registration last night in the house of commons.

To prevent "undue improper pressure," men will be classified for either immediate or post-poneable training, the house pushed through the bill establishing the new national war services department, which under Mr. Gardner, will direct all war services.

After passing the act the house rose to reconvene later for the giving of royal assent to the bill after it had received third reading in the senate. Senate approval came at

Nazi Air Raids On U.K. Slacken: Enemy Loses 72 Planes In Six Days

MAGNIFICENT RESPONSE TO CALL TO ARMS

Defence Minister Ralston's Appeal Meets With Great Success

LONDON, July 13.—Three German aircraft were destroyed by British fighters off the southeast coast tonight after British bombers last night and today had pounded naval bases at Emden and Kiel and objectives in the Rhine-land, the air ministry announced.

Tonight's successes brought to 15 at least five the number of Nazi raiders destroyed by British defenders during the day.

The communiqué said: "Hundreds of the Royal Air Force and Royal Navy aircraft attacked on objectives in Germany in spite of adverse weather conditions. Naval bases at Emden and Kiel were also attacked. Damage was caused and many fires were started.

ALL PLANES RETURN

"Daylight attacks were today (Saturday) carried out by our bombers on the airfields at Brunsbuettel, Manheim in the Rhine-land, and the air stations of the non-permanent auxiliary militia have been authorized to recruit up to war strength and other units, such as artillery, army service, armoured medical corps, to recruit as needed.

Many commercial and industrial institutions have already arranged with their employees to grant leave for camp. The government has given their staffs to carry on while the militiamen are taking training. One Toronto firm has notified all its employees that they will be given full pay for the time in camp and their usual holidays in addition.

Full time military units, as the recruiting offices will be open all day and also in the evenings.

LONDON, July 13.—Great Britain's war effort to have aircrafts to transport arms, ammunition, trucks and gasoline over the North Atlantic.

The agreement was in connection with the sending of supplies to the Chinese cause. The three months period coincides with the rainy season when usual traffic ceases over the route to 10 percent of normal.

It was understood that the British were offering the services of bombers and the shooting down of Nazi airplane over the Channel.

Official sources said it was believed possible the Germans were working on the Channel in six days, intensified by bombing and reconnaissance during which 72 German planes were shot down.

After bombing England heavily during the day, the German planes, which had been flying over the south coast, were seen again in the far eastern or European situations that would permit some permanent settlement, possibly peace talks between Japan and China.

MAJOR COMPROMISE

Vernon B. Palmer, diplomatic correspondent of The News Chronicle, Liberal party organ, and a member of the House of Commons, wrote that Britain was compromising in the negotiations with Germany over the transport of arms, ammunition, trucks and gasoline over the North Atlantic.

He said: "The Germans had agreed to the shooting down of Nazi planes over the Channel in exchange for the sending of supplies to China.

Palmer said: "The British attitude is complicated by uncertainty regarding America's entry into the war.

Official sources said it was believed possible the Germans were working on the Channel in six days, intensified by bombing and reconnaissance during which 72 German planes were shot down in the last 24 hours.

TWO PILOTS DIE IN CRASH AT BRANDON

Postponement Of Plan To Move Children Changes Situation

Postponement by the British government of the mass movement of "guest" children to Canada will mean that more children expected to arrive in Alberta next week will not come here. It was reported in official circles Saturday.

Mr. Blaine, superintendent of child welfare for the province, received the following wire from F. C. Blane, director of immigration at Ottawa: "Regret to advise that the British government has found it necessary to suspend the movement of evacuee children.

Official sources said the movement was delayed and that an announcement would be made at the time of the week.

On Friday 1,850 children arrived at Halifax but these are understood to have come under private arrangements, to be taken care of by relatives or friends of the parents. A number of Edmonton people are taking children of friends in Great Britain.

Some 800 applications have been received from parents in Canada for homes to take children. Most of these offered to take one girl but others offered to take one or two boys.

Officials here received notice from Ottawa that the whole plan was being delayed and that an announcement would be made at the time of the week.

The dead were Pte. F. J. Hunter, 20, enlisted with the R.C.O.C. unit in training at nearby Camp Shilo, and Simon Rosenman, 27-year-old instructor at the Brandon Flying School. Rosenman, a Canadian flyer, had been instructor for two years at the flying club while Hunter held a private pilot's license.

BRITAIN ORDERS FAST AMERICAN PURSUIT PLANES

BRITAIN United Press Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
NEW YORK, July 13.—The British purchasing mission has placed an order for American pursuit planes "superior to anything the Germans have," a spokesman for the commission said today.

The spokesman said a British plane dived the pursuit plane at 600 miles an hour and the ship pulled out "as firm as a rock."

He would not reveal the number of planes or the manufacturer.

The Curtiss-Wright manufacturing company this year tested their new P-40 at Buffalo and the company reported the plane had achieved a terminal dive velocity of more than 600 miles an hour.

The planes, 25-ton four-motored flying boats like the Cabot and Caribbean, travel Atlantic and Pacific. Last summer, with 100 mail and an unannounced number of passengers. They will carry no protective arms.

The British terminal was not announced.

GERMAN AIR ATTACKS ON U.K. SLACKEN

as bombers and fighters had been shot down in the last 72 hours. A communiqué of the air ministry and home security ministry said.

During the night enemy aircraft dropped bombs on a few districts in north and east England, Scotland and Wales. Some houses were damaged but casualties were not numerous although some persons were killed.

One German plane dropped three bombs in a municipal housing area in southwest Scotland, wrecking a shop and a government office and causing numerous casualties. Reports indicated that the Germans had dropped high explosive bombs and incendiaries southeast and southwest Scotland but had concentrated on incendiary attacks in northeast Scotland.

COSTLY ATTACKS

The German attacks were costly ones, the air ministry said, and nine bombers were shot down yesterday by British Spitfire and Hurricane fighter planes, that a 10th was shot down by a plane of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The 11th was shot down by anti-aircraft gun fire. In addition numerous German planes had been damaged.

Reports of a capture of 100,000 of which attacked a shipping convoy off the east coast of England were shot down and the other damaged. One plane of three which attacked other shipping was shot down in flames. Spitfires downed a big Nazi bomber over Aberdeenshire, Scotland.

CONFIDENCE GROWS

There seemed growing confidence in the efficiency of Britain's defense against air raids, and that was expressed that if Germany lost so many planes in comparatively minor attacks, it might be difficult to keep replacing crews in a big scale action.

British planes continued their daily attacks on German bases in France, Germany and Austria, and German Barge concentrations, seaplanes and harbor works were damaged in a raid on Boulogne. French air bases were bombed. Metal and munition works, blast furnaces and other military objectives were bombed in Germany.

Auditories extended a coastal curtain to a large part of the York shore coast today.

Inhabitants of the area must remain indoors between half an hour after sunset and half an hour before sunrise.

CAUSE MANY FIRES

Describing the recent raids on German bases, the air ministry said that heavy bombers attacked Walshaven, Sittard, Holland, for two hours, causing many fires, blasted runways and damaged buildings at Schiphol airport, Holland, dropping more than 100 bombs, high explosive and incendiaries. Two British aircraft were shot down.

British bombers and fighters had bombed the Hoornsebaai, Holland, and bombed the Hoornsebaai, Holland, air-drome.

Using parachute flares, British bombers attacked munitions works at Ludwigshafen and Cologne, Germany, blast furnaces at Siegburg and a factory at Mutterstadt. Explosives were dropped on the Rhine at Mutterstadt, the air ministry said. Pilots who attacked factories at Strasbourg, France, reported that they used explosives and several fire bombs, the first of which could be seen 60 miles away.

Assurance has been given by the ministry picture indicating the pattern at the patriotic performances in every theatre on Monday evening, July 13, at 8:30 p.m. will see a short film of the German invasions and added treats of a special nature. Yet the theatres will not derive one cent from the box office money, but the money will be used in the purchase of at least 100 20c war savings stamps, which the patron will retain.

The War This Week

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Cable Editor

THE battle between Great Britain and Germany for supremacy in the air began in earnest in the 45th week of the war. Royal Air Force bombers ranged over the congested industrial areas of western Germany while at home the fighter squadrons proved their mettle. In one day 23 of the Nazi attacking planes were shot down.

For military reasons little information was given out, but the Germans have been able to inflict in Britain, but judging from the small number of casualties it was great.

On the other hand news allowed of German planes shot down in the last 24 hours indicated that the R.A.F. had seriously complicated industrial life in the bombed regions. But at usual rate of damage of importance was admitted.

taches and most of the members of the cabinet and Premier Ion Gheorghe.

Diplomatic circles said Romanian foreign policy was reviewed in what they labelled the beginning of a new era of German-Romanian co-operation.

RESEMBLES NAZI BRAND

The new Romanian government frequently has announced reorientation of its policies in the direction of the Rome-Berlin axis. But just as Rumania geographically is much closer to Germany so its totalitarianism is much closer to the Nazi more than to the Fascist brand.

In the early days of Fascism and national socialism, Romanian Jews have borne the brunt of many trials and persecutions.

JEWS DENOUCED

They have been denounced in speeches by cabinet members as "poisoners of the national life."

Jewish songs no longer may be sung nor Jewish music be played in public. No orchestra may contain Jewish musicians. Jewish artists are barred from the stage.

Thomas Ford, an Irish sailor from the British Isles, said last night that he believed they had sung anti-Semitic songs in the British Isles.

All Romanian newspapers have been required to publish editorials and staff members, Jews included, hold neither public office nor government positions.

As in Italy and Germany, the new government is a religious control.

Three newspapers already have been suppressed in Bucharest. Today, the Romanian press demanded "imperialist tendencies and exaggerated ambitions" of Hungary.

Sixty censorship has been imposed on foreign correspondents.

Many Communists have been sent to the Soviet Union.

SINGLE MEN FIRST CALLED FOR TRAINING

E.O. MASTERS, and the measure received the signature of Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, as deputy to the governor-general, shortly afterwards.

Mr. Gardner outlined the operation of the registration after his signature and organizing ability had been praised from all sides of the house.

Registration will probably begin Monday, July 10, and continue for three or four days, he said. The assistance of members of parliament in naming registrars had been obtained and he expected to have the names of all registrars by Saturday night.

All persons above 16 years of age will be required to register. Copies will be issued to each registrant in the local polling booth of the registrations of all persons between 21 and 45 years of age.

JUDGE CLASSIFIES CARDS

The original registration cards will be sent to the registrar for the constituency which each man had been assigned to the dominion bureau of statistics in Ottawa. Thus, said Mr. Gardner, there will be left in the provinces the names of the heads of single men between 21 and 45.

The judge placed in charge of the constituency will classify all these cards as eligible for immediate or post-registration.

"It is not the intention to set up tribunals or to have the judge hear any personal evidence," Mr. Gardner said, reading a letter of instructions being sent out to judges concerned.

The dominion government was working out a designation of essential industries, a list of which would be provided to each judge. The judge would also be provided with an outline of principles to be followed.

"Naturally we will only be able to outline broad principles and the judge will have to apply them to the individual case," he added.

The judge would have these principles, the list of essential industries, a copy of the registration card and "any written representations that his (the person registered) employer may see fit to make" before him on which to base his classification.

INDEPENDENT TRIBUNAL

"We have chosen the judges so that the people of Canada will be assured that an independent tribunal has dealt with individual cases and has classified the men as either eligible or not," he said.

"In this way, no undue, improper pressure can be brought by any person to have a man's name placed on the list," he said.

The minister's words formed the most detailed analysis of the government's registration and mobilization plans given out so far.

He said the question of when a man was classified would depend on whether his name was on the immediate or postponed list.

These cards, properly classified, will then be sent to the district of the local judge to the central judge. The central judge will classify them in age groups by years, and will know the name of each man in each group from 21 to 45, each group available for military training. He would also know the number by ages on the postponed list.

CALL REQUIREMENTS

When we are notified by the military authorities that a certain number of men are required—and it must be remembered that these men are required for military training, not for military service—then the central judge will go to his record and call up the requisite number from the 21-year-old class in the immediate list, and will go on from year to year until the required number has been called up," said the minister.

Mr. Gardner said a provision would have to be made for dealing with the cases of men coming on age after registration.

It was the government's desire that as many judges of the superior or district courts as possible be used, and only when no judges were not available should police magistrates be called upon.

Pressed for a statement as to the possibility of tribunals, the minister said he did not think any would be set up. There would be a board of tribunals in Ottawa in the first instance to determine how classifications should be made.

Mr. Gardner felt that the general drill which young men would get in a six weeks' training period would not be able to determine whether they wished to volunteer in the militia or for overseas service and, if so, in what part of the service.

WOMEN ARE PRAISED

Efforts of women in conducting a voluntary registration of their sons were lauded by the minister. More than 100,000 women had been registered, he said, and much more information than would be obtained in the government questionnaire.

T. C. Douglas (C. P. Weyburn) urged Mr. Gardner to work with the Canadian public information, among many other things, to keep in mind the lesson of France. The collapse there was widely attributed to the fact the people did not know what they were fighting for. He urged that the people of Canada be kept informed, even if the news happened to be temporarily unfavorable.

MAKE CANADA INDEPENDENT FOR WEAPONS

Canadian Factories Being Rapidly Whipped Into Shape

OTTAWA, July 13—Industrial developments now taking shape under the direction of the department of munitions and supply are designed to make Canada independent of all outside sources for weapons and munitions of war.

As rapidly as possible Canadian factories are being whipped into shape to produce every fighting weapon from the service rifle to the giant coastal defence and naval guns, which weigh hundreds of pounds.

FULL-FLEDGED INDUSTRY

A high authority indicated the industrial mobilization powers vested in the government and the department of munitions and supply in particular are being used to bring into being a full-fledged armament industry at once.

Soon after war started, apart from one plant working on production of aircraft engines, another and another preparing to make field guns, there were no facilities for manufacture of arms.

DOUBLE CAPACITY

Now arrangements are being made to produce every weapon required in the fighting forces as well as projectiles used. These arrangements include doubling the capacity of the British plant at Vimy Ridge, and additional arms plants for the manufacture of service rifles, an enlarged program at a gun factory which has been working for some time on 250-ton guns, and the British government and establishment of other plants in different parts of the country.

But the spotlight swerved to the children and rested there. As the liner came slowly up the harbor, the children, all deep and dazed, cheered. Along the whole of the ship's length scarcely an adult face could be seen.

Most of them were accompanied by their mothers or relatives who, as well, will remain in Canada for the duration of the war. Many will visit Canadian relatives or friends.

Some passengers said one possibly two, attacks had been made on the convoy during the seven-day trip and one submarine was definitely known to have sunk.

A flying boat which accompanied the ship on the first part of the voyage, flew back while they were in the Irish sea and signalled that a submarine had been sighted.

FAST AND PRAY UNTIL WAR ENDS CARDINAL ASKS

OTTAWA, July 13—A suggestion that Canadian Catholics observe next Friday a day of "severe" fasting and every Friday until the end of the war a "veritable day of prayer and penance" so that peace may be restored.

It was made by Cardinal Villeneuve of Quebec.

In a letter to the clergy of Quebec and Archdiocese, the cardinal said that acts of penance should be joined with prayers for peace and asked parish priests to suggest that Catholics make next Friday a "severe" fast as much as possible on bread and water.

He suggested in the letter, released by the Archbishops' palace, that a simple meal of vegetables or any other meatless food be taken at noon. Friday.

PETAIN ORDER PLACES PORTS UNDER NAVY

OTTAWA, July 13—All French ports, harbors and river mouths from the Seine to the Bidassoa river on the Spanish frontier, together with all ports along the Mediterranean coast and in North Africa were placed under authority of the French navy.

This was announced in a decree signed by Chief of State Marshal Petain.

The decree specifically mentioned the Seine and river ports of Mantes and Bordeaux on the Atlantic and Rouen on the Seine. But since the Channel, Atlantic and Bay of Biscay are all part of French-occupied territory, the exact meaning of the decree was not clear.

Enemy Aliens From Britain For Australia

British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

CANBERRA, Australia, July 13—

The British government has shipped 2,000 enemy aliens to Australia for internment for the duration of the war, a government spokesman disclosed today.

The spokesman said that the British government would bear the cost of maintaining the internment of enemy aliens for the aliens from Britain.

WAR SERVICES BILL IS GIVEN ROYAL ASSENT

Passage Of Measure To Provide Minister's Salary Blocked

OTTAWA, July 13—The bill creating a department of national war services passed third reading in the Senate late last night having received similar treatment in the House of Commons.

The bill received Royal assent from Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, acting for the government.

Just before the chamber rose to meet at 11 a.m. today, Senator L. McMeans (Con., Manitoba) blocked passage of the bill to provide a salary of $10,000 for the minister of the new department.

Senator McMeans claimed this bill had not been distributed or printed and he forced postponement of third reading as given the war services bill.

The bill set up the department to estimate various war services, to maintain a national register of manpower.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle Plans Mechanized Army To Fight On For France

By GLADYS ARNOLD

Canadian Press Correspondent

OTTAWA, July 13—General Charles de Gaulle, leader of the French forces fighting beside Britain now intends to put into practice the theories of mechanized warfare he prophesied years ago, in which he said the Germans must be defeated with devastating tactics.

The French Legion forming under his command will be mechanized, he said yesterday in an interview. It is to be the first mechanized army, said General de Gaulle.

"When fighting a war in the last analysis, it is a question of strength," General de Gaulle said. "We want France to continue as a military power."

For de Gaulle is a soldier. The force he has formed is a force to which answering echoes come from all parts of the world, it is a fighting force, not a political one.

"There is nothing like France," he said. "The French Legion makes no pretense of setting up a new government. It has to be a mobile, mobile army, which will be able to move France effectively as well as symbolically, fighting at the side of its allies, Britain and the dominions, and the deliverance of the motherland."

Photographs of the tall, serious-looking man do not reveal the quiet strength and kindness and gentleness that are hidden beneath his reserve in conversation.

"Fear is governing France," de Gaulle declared. "The armistice was dominated by local and abnormal conditions. The people of France might appear before Senate committees to speak on and complain about their government, but they informed nor consulted. They knew nothing and are only just learning the results. One must remember this when reading anything emanating from France."

Even what the French government said came through a curtain of fear—that Germany would violate or repudiate the armistice. Fear dominates the people, fear for their families and the violence which may be committed against them.

"When I left Bordeaux, people already had ceased to talk," he said.

"Confusion reigned and they were afraid. What must it be now? But you know France—you must have seen and known there was not capitulation in the hearts of the French people."

Fair Week

Edmonton's Fair is the outstanding midsummer event of central and northern Alberta. It draws great numbers of people to the city from all parts of this large area, and many visitors also from more distant points. More than any other, Fair Week is the time when "town and country meet" in holiday mood, but also for the transaction of business, the making and renewing of acquaintanceships, and the competitive display of farm and other products. Edmonton's prestige would suffer if the annual Fair disappeared from the calendar, just as Winnipeg's prestige suffered when its annual Exhibition was abandoned.

Edmonton people can do a good deal to assure the success of the Fair which opens on Monday, and find interest and satisfaction in doing so. The Fair both deserves their patronage and will give value for the admission in the things to be seen there. Inviting out-of-town friends to visit the city during Fair Week is a pleasant and practical way to help. And if homes and business places are ablaze with flags and bunting much will thus be done to give a gala atmosphere to the occasion.

A $1,000,000 Stamp Sale

The picture houses in Edmonton, and everywhere else in Canada, should be packed to the doors Monday evening. On that occasion the movie theatres right across the Dominion are to co-operate in a joint effort to sell $1,000,000 worth of war savings stamps. The stamps will be on sale at the doors, and as an added incentive to buy the customer may see the show for nothing.

Admission will be gained by buying two or more of the 25 cent stamps. The buyer will keep the stamps. The money he pays for them will go entirely into the war fund. The proprietors of the theatres are standing the whole expense of the selling campaign, and donating the use of their theatres and equipment. Every cent obtained by the sale of the stamps will go to the Government.

This very practical and wholly voluntary effort to help with the war financing deserves enthusiastic popular support. There should be bumper crowds at all the theatres.

And—there is nothing to prevent the customer buying more stamps than he requires for admission. The more stamps he buys the more money will be made immediately available for war purposes, the more savings he will lay away for future use, and the better the theatremen will be pleased.

Continental Defence

Three members of the military committee of the House of Representatives want the United States to "acquire" and fortify naval and air bases in Nova Scotia and Bermuda; while Mr. Stefanoff of Arctic fame says the United States must defend Canada as well as Alaska from Soviet attack by air across the North Pole.

This is further welcome evidence that our neighbors are no longer under any illusion that aggression in Europe is only a matter of spectator interest to the United States, Colonel Lindbergh to the contrary. The isolation myth has gone into the discard, along with the notion that neutrality is a bomb-proof shelter.

As to these proposals, it will not be necessary for the United States to look beyond its own borders for plenty of opportunities to build up defences. Canada is attending to the protection of Nova Scotia, the Bermudas, and its northern areas; and the facilities being provided will be available to United States co-operating forces should it be necessary to fight aggressors on the shores of this continent.

For present purposes Canada thinks it is better business to fight aggression at its source. If it can be stopped there Canada and the United States will live secure, with or without multiplied coastal and sea defences. And it can be stopped if the United States will just continue to build and sell Canada and its Allies increasing numbers of airplanes and such other types of armament as they require. The patent fact is that Canada is doing all the actual defending of this continent that is being done.

Britain's Food Supply

Britain is to make a field-by-field survey of its cultivable land, to see that "each field makes its contribution to the life of the nation." Not this year, but next. It is too late now to effect any considerable expansion of farm production in the present season. And for the time supplies are ample and the sea routes open from Canada and other food sources abroad.

In so far as this is not an economic policy aimed at self-sufficiency, it is a precautionary measure intended to assure home-grown supplies next year in case the sea routes should be barricaded by the submarine blockade. If the routes are kept open, Britain will be in no danger of hunger, and a larger output of farm produce there will be important only as balancing the country's economy by cutting down imports.

Canada's fast growing naval forces are and will be doing good service on behalf of Canadian farmers, as well as on behalf of British consumers and the security of the old lands and the Dominion. If merchant vessels can ply safely between Canadian and British ports our surplus farm products will continue to go to Britain without interruption, and its people will not have to divert attention from the serious business of war to that of fighting a danger of food scarcity.

About three per cent of Oklahoma's population have been driven out of the state in the last ten years by drought. While the proportion is not large, the fact that the population has grown less is significant, since the total ten years ago was less than two and a half millions. The moral for Canada is plain. The reclamation of our dry areas must go on if these are not to relapse into depopulated deserts.

On The Record
BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

FOURTH OF JULY
On July 4 we celebrated the 164th anniversary of a revolutionary action which determined the tendency and set the pace for a development that endured uninterruptedly until the last war. The American Revolution 'preceded the French, but drew from the brewing French movement many essential ideas. The author of the Declaration of Independence, which was also the first great declaration of human rights, drew inspiration from those French Encyclopedists whose writings preceded the liquidation of the ancien régime.

Whatever it may have been called—parliamentary government, republic, democracy, political freedom—was born in the American Revolution, and the French spread throughout the earth and have dominated the thinking and the political behavior of the world down into the last two decades, when, for the first time since the Declaration of Independence, they are being almost universally challenged.

Elsewhere in the world there was always a residue of ideas surviving from previous regimes. The Faubourg St. Honore never fully accepted the French democracy; the Junker class in Germany never accepted the Germanic versions of the eighteenth century credo, which found expression in the revolutions of 1848 and 1849. France, indeed, was the only European state which really underwent this experience of a society primarily based on regard for the political expressions of human rights. In England, despite far-reaching political freedom, there has been until this day a strong residue of feudalism and feudal caste-consciousness.

But this country knows no other history. It was born with the Declaration and it lives in the Declaration. Without the conception of human rights, we, as a nation, make no sense whatsoever. Deprived of this conception we are cut loose from all our moorings; we are without a political literature and without a national past. Deprived of it we are like a man dispossessed of his only faith, a perfectly agnostic, rudderless, open to all winds, and the blow of every assault upon the integrity of his own soul. For we have conceived of human rights as being God-given. They are therefore part of our faith, in the most religious sense of the word.

Furthermore, we are a people who live by a book—by the law, written in our own way on tablets of stone. Not blood and soil can bind together the children of all races. In all Europe the Swiss, the people who call themselves the Comradeship of the Oath, the only Europeans who, regardless of differences of race, language and religion, are held together by an idea and which it has become one of the toughest, most prosperous and most civilized states in the world—state that only brute force can, and probably will, destroy.

It is possible for a German to feel himself no less German under feudalism, capitalism, democracy or Nazism. His Germanness is in his blood. It is possible for a Frenchman to be thoroughly French whether he is ruled by

BY FRED WILLIAMS

This is an important week-end historically for the Church of England in central Ontario. It was on July 12, 1840, that Bishop Strachan paid his first pastoral visit to Peterboro, largely visited by members of the Church of Ireland. Little was given him there, but the Rev. Mr. Horatio Lord Nelson is still the father and idol of the British Navy, but how did the parents of this young man know he would rise to prominence in naval circles when they named him? Was there any Canadian Navy when he was named? If not, what forces were at work to shape both his career and that of the Canadian Navy? It is a mystery.

The expression "putting teeth in the law" is often used when somebody we don't like does something that offends us. I can only see the law being teeth in something once.

A fellow came over a steep embankment in his car. On coming to in the hospital and for several days thereafter he was frightfully upset because his top teeth had gone—with the wind. On the third day an officer of the Provincial Police arrived to ask the usual questions for his report. The constable was considerably embarrassed by the inarticulate manner the patient made in his alleged teeth. Suddenly, though he had been to the dentist, reached into his pocket, dragged out a small paper parcel and said: "Here, stick these in, then maybe I can understand you. We found 'em in the wreck."

That's real service.

Consider the British character. Nothing daunts it, nothing gets it down, it always carries on. In a recent edition of Punch I had the curiosity to glance over the list of subscription rates and found, somewhat to my astonishment, that it quoted rates for periods of all lengths from three months to twenty-four years.

Imagine subscribing to a magazine twenty-four years ahead of time and then going to the post office to find it has gone to fall. ACHIEVEMENT

PUNCH
Hitler, the Townsend Plan, the New Deal, the Democratic Party, and other trifles may disturb the world for a moment and be forgotten. But Punch is eternal. There is no question in the minds of its publishers. It goes on.

Someday, doubtless, I shall receive a note from the family lawyer saying that the will of some forgotten relative contains the fruity name of "W. H. Townsend" and to my dismay the annexed portion of the subscription to Punch. Thus are British families welded together in one common bond of humor.

I have discovered the father of Canadian poetry, the mother-lore of all that solid sentiment that has been dear to the hearts of the Northland, the fundamental things of life such as death, love, health, religion and drunkenness.

It is all in a volume called the "Khan's Canaries," by Mr. R. K. Kernighan, published in 1896.

collection of verses written over a period of twenty years in the worthy Hindu style. The Khan, Andrew Khan, is only the father of Canadian poetry as the Canadian Authors' Association understand it, he has done more than that for this country, he is the predecessor in a direct line of Eddie Guest without whom, at one time, no newspaper was complete.

The Khan had gravity to divine causes, dead babies whom their mothers are proud to think was born with God that they could be here, bare savages, primitive with crooked backs and never-did-see-on earth who might go to Heaven. Like Wordsworth, he denies that a loved child who passed away seventeen years ago is really dead and he goes into ecstasies about a little girl leading her soused papa home from the saloon at two in the morning.

As a formative influence in Canadian poetry he deserves an article to himself instead of a paragraph, but if you ever come across him don't give him up—read him. Here is a sample of his message to cheer you on:

"Reader have you got a wife
Kiss her every day
To the duty of your life
To kiss her every day."

To the credit of Canadian poetry it may be added that his terrific output was largely lubricated by the Best Brandy.

The index number stood at 127.0 on the 1930 base as 100, as compared with 107.9 in April and 111.5 in May, 1939. For the first four months of 1940 averaged 18 per cent above the corresponding period of 1939.—Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

What a time to be alive! Adventure never before lifted such allure before the vision of the high-hearted. The demand for heroes is far greater than the present supply. Tasks outrivalling that of Columbus are beckoning from every side.

Most urgent and fundamental of these is the call for the changing of the human spirit into the moulds bequeathed by Christ. How far the adventure of being makers-over of men!

We are grateful, our Father, for all signs of the fulfillment of our saviour's program of love. May we be meet for this our day. Amen.

The Common Round
BY J. BUTTERFIELD

In a book full of sophisticated trifles, Mr. Robert Benchley asked to know what form of disease it is that compels people to stay at parties until they are quite over. He suggests many things, such as a disinclination to go home and other monotonous reasons. There are, however, only two. One is the fear of being driven home by a drunk, the other is the greater fear of having to drive a drunk and deliver him intact to the police station.

There is a very good reason, however, for not staying to the end. It could occur that some rotter would have brought a couple of girls and, in a fit of abstraction, have walked off and left them there. In that case if you stay to the last the hostess will undoubtedly think they belong to you and insist on your taking them home. Which is unthinkable.

The relation between names and trades is a bit mysterious. In the old days, of course, if a man was a smith, he was called Smith, if he was a joiner he was a joiner, etc. The Royal Canadian Navy is a gentleman called Lt. Commander Horatio Nelson Lay? Horatio Lord Nelson is still the father and idol of the British Navy, but how did the parents of this young man know he would rise to prominence in naval circles when they named him? Was there any Canadian Navy when he was named? If not, what forces were at work to shape both his career and that of the Canadian Navy? It is a mystery.

Today, however, all those things are settled and done with. How then shall we account for the puzzling names that find their for wages with which to buy life for ourselves as individuals and for the pleasure and leisure today we must work them for our common cause and build them to defend our common life.

Today we may restore in this world the prestige of the machine, the iron men which men of flesh and blood have created with their brains and hands.

commune, the Parliament, the reign of King, the Pope, the Pope of France. For France is rare, geography, landscape, language and food. So it is of all the races of Europe, except the U.S.A.

But to an American means to believe in certain things. We have no common blood and no unique language. In our speech we are all Americans, but we are not Americans by geography. But without our articles of common faith we are simply a congeries of various tribes living close together.

Hence the American's instinctive and healthy conservatism about his institutions. Hence our numerous natural allies. Hence our family ties with friends written so long ago. For we know that when or if we can no longer quote Jefferson and Washington and Lincoln, if we have lost our cause for man's rights and human liberty that runs like a red thread through all our words and institutions, we shall be lost. We have no cause, no cause, no cause, no cause, for existence. Unless we shall not sing the word "freedom" we shall sing in America.

There are no ideals, which are not passing currents of a sort, but the rock on which the nation rests, the Gibraltar of our independence, must constantly be reinterpreted, and from generation to generation restated to meet a developing and changing world. Our capacity to reinterpret them is the first necessity of our survival. We must listen to those who say a man is not free if he fears to lose his job, to those who say a man is not free if he fears to be a Communist, to be thwarted in his noblest aim that of self-development—as a member of a developing community.

We must listen to those who say wealth is not free if it is gained from creative activity, whether it be labor or capital or resources.

Our first defense of freedom is to be united in the certainty of our freedom. The second is the creation of the actual material means of defense. The third is to be sure that when or if the challenge come or not to the soil we must act on the assumption that it will. We must not weaken ourselves by the hope of the expectation that it may not. We must listen to the voices of reason, to the voices of the world, to the voices of the Troops.

Installations and Repairs
Should Be Made During Summer Months

If efficient heating and economy of operation are desired, it is essential that the domestic heating plant be cleaned and in good repair. This should be done during the summer months when a boiler or furnace have exceeded its useful life of service. It is a wise economy to replace it.

No one, says the Canadian Institute of Heating and Ventilating, can guarantee a heating plant to last for 20 years. The average life of a heating plant is 10 years, and there comes a time when, in too many cases, it does, unfortunately, in costs more to operate it than it is requiring to replace it.

For instance, a modern heating plant, including a boiler, costs $1,000. The same plant, if it is to be maintained, will cost $100 a year for fuel, labor and maintenance. The cost of replacing it will be $1,000.

Consequently, it is recommended to have a type of heating plant, such as a modern heating plant, as it is to the insulation system at the same time.

It is recommended by means of numerous publications of the Canadian Institute of Heating and Ventilating that the insulation system be checked and repaired.

To ensure a checkup of the heating plant, go to the nearest heating plant, and have it checked. If any cracks or joints are found, smoke pipes and chimneys should be thoroughly cleaned. Air tightness of the system should also be tested as air leaks often cause unnecessary consumption of fuel. The system should be checked for any air leak, and if a leak is found, it should be checked for any air leak.

Improvements, as in the case of a heating plant, can be made by the Home Improvement Plan.

WEST SWIMMER PLACES SECOND IN TITLE MEET

VERDUN, Que.—John McJunkin, 16, of Verdun, was the 100-yard free-style swimmer to be declared as the 1940 Canadian champion in swimming, and last night that complete victory was given to candidate, General M. Avila Camacho, a majority of 2,265,190 votes.

The party said Avila Camacho received 2,265,190 votes, while the other candidates, Andre Almazan, of Montreal, and Lee Whittemore, of Hamilton, Ont., only other contestants in the event. The Dominion record is 55 years.

Cool Comfort In Kitchen

In this replanned kitchen, the pantry has been replaced by commodious wall and base cupboards, the sink stands under the pleasant window, and the chief work areas have been arranged to facilitate cooking, serving and cleaning.

Preparing meals is a considerable task at all times during the year, but more especially when the hot summer months roll around. It is then that the coal and gas companies are most anxious to sell more fuel. The modern planned kitchen, however, can help, as suggested by the Canadian Institute of Heating and Ventilating.

Careful planning of the kitchen is a cool comfort to build. In the newly planned kitchen, the wife spends more than 50 per cent of her time in the kitchen. Careful arrangement should be made to facilitate the work of the wife, especially in the preparation of the meals. The wife should be able to move about the kitchen easily and as she does the house is less likely to be any comfort to her. She should be in a position to eliminate any tiresome back bending. A double drainboard sink with twin compartments is a great convenience. The preparation of the vegetables and fruits that go into the salads and drinks which form the backbone of the summer menu. The removable curtain or detachable hose spray for rinsing and single swinging spout faucet will be found convenient.

Laundry saving areas can be added to the kitchen, and the use of the modern sink.

The refrigerator, which keeps the food cool and the drinks and desserts ice cold when the temperature is 90 degrees outside, should be placed near the dining room door. The range, where the food is prepared ready for serving, is near the door to the dining room.

Between the two, as the focal point in the kitchen, is the sink.

Also an important factor in the modern kitchen is the amount of time the wife spends in the kitchen.

Careful arrangement should be made to facilitate the work of the wife, especially in the preparation of the meals.
